THE WEATHER AT THE EQUATOR

A The equator is an imaginary line around the middle of the Earth. It is halfway between the North Pole and the South Pole. The seasons here are different to the rest of the world. Usually, it is hot all year, with a wet and a dry season. The wet season usually lasts most of the year.

B The water in the air means that regions at the equator are not the hottest in the world. Dry climates are hotter than wet, or humid, climates.

C The long and warm rainy season creates tropical forests. There are lots of plants and animals here. One hectare of forest in Brazil can have 1,500 different types of insects.

D Some regions at the equator are not hot and humid. For example, Mount Kilimanjaro, in Tanzania, is very close to the equator. But because it is so high, the climate there is cool and dry.

1. A lot of trees grow in the tropical climate. _____
2. Mountain regions have got a different climate at the equator. _____
3. The wet season is longer than the dry season. _____
4. Wet climates are cooler than dry climates. _____
