Grandad's hat

Last year we had to drive into the countryside. We stopped in a big field. There were lots of balloons everywhere and they were all different colours. I couldn't believe it! We were going to go up in a balloon! I chose one that was red and yellow and we got into the basket.

We were wearing coats because my grandad said it could be very cold high up in the sky. We went higher and it got colder. My grandad gave me his hat so my ears didn't get cold but I didn't mind because I was more interested in looking down at the hills and fields.

Suddenly, I could see the village where my grandparents lived below us. "Look! There's your house!" I shouted. It was very exciting and I jumped into the air and my grandad's hat fell off my head and out of the basket. I could see it falling to the ground. "Oh, no! I'm sorry about your hat, granddad!" I said. "It's okay, it was old. I don't mind." He answered.

We went back to the field and drove home. I was very sad about losing my grandad's hat. But, what a surprise! When we got out of the car, there was his hat! It had fallen from the balloon, into my grandparent's garden.
